ROTARY CLUB'S INAUGURATION

SIR HARRY HATT EXPLAINS THE MOVEMENT

HIGHER PRINCIPLES IN ALL WALKS OF LIFE

The Yeovil Rotary Club held its inaugural gathering in the Masonic Hall on Wednesday, when Mr. R. A. Bruce presided at a luncheon attended by a full gathering of local members and a number of visitors from the Bath Rotary Club, including the President, Sir Harry Hatt.

The Chairman, at the conclusion of the meal, introduced Sir Harry Hatt, and said they had a great advantage in inaugurating their meetings with such a gathering. They much appreciated the assistance they had had from their Bath friends, realising the difficulties of forming an organisation, the abstract merits of which were generally understood, but the constitution and so on of which were entirely unknown. Their Bath friends had been splendid in giving them the assistance required.

Sir Harry Hatt, who was given a very cordial reception, expressed his pleasure in welcoming their club to the movement and in bringing to them most cordial greetings. They were not only that day starting a Rotary Club, but they were embarking on a great adventure, and they would, in the course of time, become affiliated to the British Association and later become part of the great Rotary International spread over the world. It was an association in which the spirit of friendship, mutual confidence, service and sympathy and consideration for others was the guiding spirit, in all their relations, whether in commerce, private life or international affairs.

Going on to speak of its objects and aims, Sir Harry said that Rotary was an ideal - and an association of ideals - and success would largely depend on the personality of members who formed Rotary Clubs. He suggested they would be exceedingly careful how they added to their membership: they wanted to see that they got the best. When he said best, he did not mean men in the largest way of business; they wanted them to have the Rotary spirit. One thing they must impress was that there was nothing (by way of business) to be got out of Rotary.

Emphasising the growth of the movement since before the war to its present level of 80000, he said it was reasonable to suppose before long there might be a million men meeting round 30000 or 40000 tables, and they would realise, he said, what an enormous force this might be, composed as it was by men travelling all over the world. The cultivation of friendship was the first duty of the Rotary and on that friendship the whole remaining structure was built.

There was no business man so poor who could not afford some time for more work outside his business and no man had a right to a free ride on the car of progress someone else was running.

Mr J. C. Medcalf proposed the thanks of the Yeovil Club to their Bath Club visitors and the proceedings terminated.

Welcome

From the President of the Rotary Club of Yeovil

It is a great privilege and honour to welcome you all to our 90th Anniversary Celebration and Fund Raising Dinner.

I am very pleased that so many Rotarians have joined us, especially those from our 'Mother' clubs, Bath and Weston-super-Mare. It is a pleasure to welcome members from the Rotary Club of Bielefeld in Germany, rekindling our clubs' associations of the past. I am also delighted that so many members of our link club, The Rotary Club of Apeldoorn, have travelled from The Netherlands to be here tonight and I hope that our long-standing association and friendship will continue for many years to come.

Grateful thanks go to Commodore Paul Chivers OBE RN, Station Commander and Captain of Royal Naval Air Station Yeovilton, for granting us permission to celebrate tonight's occasion in the beautiful and prestigious surroundings of the Ward Room. We are also appreciative of the services of the HMS Heron Volunteer Band, who have so kindly waived their fees to play for us during the meal.

Given the setting for this evening, the air station's involvement in recent and ongoing conflicts and the close association that I and other club members have had with the Services, I found the choice of charity to benefit from this evening an easy one. Help for Heroes is a most worthwhile cause, where all money donated goes to help the wounded Servicemen and women returning from Afghanistan and Iraq. Please join us in supporting them, either by bidding for items or promises in the auction - which will follow the dinner - or by making a donation in the envelopes provided. Events such as this take a great deal of organising and I wish to place on record my sincere thanks to all those involved, especially to members of the Rotary Club of Yeovil for their encouragement and support.

Finally, I would like to thank our advertisers, other supporters and sponsors for their generous contributions and, of course, even more importantly, to thank you for your attendance this evening and for helping to celebrate The Rotary Club of Yeovil's 90 years of service to communities locally and around the world. I hope you enjoy the evening.

Rotarian Mike Nethaway
President 2012/13
The Rotary Club of Yeovil

The Rotary Club of Yeovil

The Rotary Club of Yeovil received its Charter on 17 July 1922 and was one of 44 other clubs formed in Great Britain that year. It now has 37 members.

During its time, it has sponsored the formation of three other Rotary Clubs in the area: Glastonbury and Street in 1947; Crewkerne in 1953 and more recently; Yeo Vale in 1986 - which also serves the Yeovil area. From these, other clubs have extended: Avalon Club in 1986 and Crewkerne District Club in 2009.

Yeovil Club has close links with the Apeldoorn Club in the Netherlands and, about once every two years, visits take place between the two, with the countries alternating each time.

In 2002 Yeovil became only one of 28 Clubs in Britain to be selected as a 'pilot' club, to propose new ideas on behalf of Rotary International. This project saw the introduction of Associate Rotarians, who support the ideals of Rotary but are not able to participate fully in the Club's activities and changed the way in which the clubs internal committees were structured.

The Club is engaged in many local community activities, not only helping groups and organisations through its fundraising efforts, but also 'getting stuck in' by upholding Rotary's philosophy of 'service' and lending a helping hand with projects in and around the town.

The Club continues to support Rotary Foundation and regularly hosts visitors from other Rotary Districts across the world. It also organises a wide range of service and fund-raising activities to support the aims of Rotary, focusing particularly on senior citizens, young people and all those less fortunate.

However, Yeovil Club members believe Rotary should be 'fun' and work hard trying to achieve this goal – as tonight will no doubt testify!

Overseas Links & Associations

Links between Clubs in different countries play an important role in the Rotary aim to foster international understanding and world peace.

Early attempts for the Yeovil Club to follow "officially inspired" links seemed to gain little ground. But an unofficial friendship, starting as it were, out of the blue, has become firmer with passing years. This association is with the Netherland's Rotary Club of Apeldoorn, a town some 17-miles north of Arnhem with a population of around 137,000.

In 1955 an approach was made to the Apeldoorn Club about an exchange of visits by members' children. This was followed in 1956 by a firm invitation for ten children of the Dutch Rotarians to spend a holiday in Yeovil. It was a great success and became the forerunner of a series of regular exchanges between the two Clubs involving not only children but members and their partners also. The link continues today and regular exchanges, mainly now by Club members and their partners, take place – usually on a two-yearly basis.

The Apeldoorn Club also has a long standing 'official' Rotary link with the Rotary Club of Bielefeld in Germany, a city in the Ostwestfalen-Lippe region that has a population of approximately 323,000. The link between the Clubs in the Netherlands and Germany now enables the Yeovil Club to enjoy a close and friendly international relationship, of which it is extremely proud.

Recognising service in Rotary: the Paul Harris Fellowship

The highest and most esteemed award that can be given in Rotary is dedicated to the memory of its founder. A Paul Harris Fellowship can be sponsored by a Rotarian or a Rotary Club and it is not awarded lightly. Only those who have made an outstanding contribution to the service of others, either within Rotary, in the local community or in the wider world, are considered.

A number of current and former Yeovil Club members have been recognised as Paul Harris Fellows:

- 1980: Past President John Mitchell, sponsored by the Apeldoorn Club
- 1985: Derek Rogers, sponsored by a Rotarian from Texas, Clayton Lee
- 1991: Past District Governor Harvard Sawtell, sponsored by the Yeovil Club
- 1999: Past District Governor Brian Murray, sponsored by the Yeovil Club
- 2000: Past District Governor Dennis Taylor, sponsored by the Yeovil Club
- 2003: Leo Hodgson, sponsored by the Yeovil Club
- 2008: Past President Reg Coppard, sponsored by the Yeovil Club

Harpist Carol Arblaster

Carol has lived in the West Country most of her life, first on the West Coast of the U.S.A. and, more recently, the West Country in Somerset. Her Celtic heart has emerged through taking up the harp in 1995, learning in the oral tradition, like the old Irish bards without the aid of written scores.

Carol is based at the moated, Medieval Bishop's Palace beside Wells Cathedral where she sometimes plays. In February 2010 she debuted "Celtic Harp Offering", performing for guests at Buckingham Palace.

HMS Heron Royal Naval Volunteer Band

HMS Heron Royal Naval Volunteer Band comprises of Serving Military and Civilian personnel from various locations in Somerset and neighbouring Counties. The band has a primary role of providing music for ceremonial and social occasions around The Royal Naval Air Station. Such functions include a variety of Wardroom Dinners, Ceremonial Divisions, as well as providing music for Air Days and the Annual Christmas Concert in The Fleet Air Arm Museum. The Bandmaster is Band Colour Sergeant Tom Crane.

The Rotary Club of Yeovil 1922 - 2012

A few moments in our Club's history

1923: In January 1923 the Club's subscription was raised from £1 1s to £1 11s 6d, and in 1929, after a good deal of controversy, it was agreed to hold weekly instead of fortnightly meetings.

1924: During the first twelve years or so in the Club's life there was quite a strong emphasis on the production of stage plays. In November 1924 The Thirteenth Chair, by Bayard Veiller, was staged at the Palace Theatre, Yeovil to aid the new building fund for Yeovil District Hospital. The cast included a number of Yeovil Rotarians, their wives and daughters and, following the performance, all received much praise.

On 14th November 1924, the Western Gazette said "the Club is one of the town's youngest public institutions but in the short period of its existence it has already given expression to its motto of 'service above self'. There were many later stage productions and interest in drama is believed to have continued until about 1935 when – other than in the case of certain current members - it appears to have ceased.

1925: Sadly, many of the early records of the club were lost, either by fire or other causes. We do know however that in 1925 the luncheon meetings moved from the Masonic Hall to Maynard's Borough Restaurant, later to be known as the Cadena Café.

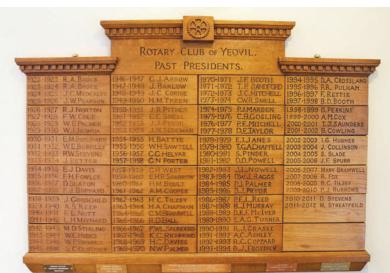

1932: In 1932 the price of the lunch was reduced (yes, reduced!) from 2s 9d to 2s 6d per head.

1937: For 75 of its 90 year history Yeovil Rotary Club has been privileged to work with an Inner Wheel Club. A suggestion that a branch of Inner Wheel be established in Yeovil was first mooted in December 1931. Nothing resulted immediately however and it was not until 1937 that the Inner Wheel Club of Yeovil was Chartered. There were 23 founder members and meetings were, like Rotary's, held at the Cadena Cafe in Yeovil. Rotarians have every reason to be grateful to the Inner Wheel for the unfailing help and co-operation they provide whenever asked and the two clubs have jointly promoted a number of projects of great benefit to communities, at home and overseas.

1946: The names of the Presidents of the Club from 1922 to 2012 are inscribed on a board presented to the club in 1946 by Past-Presidents R.A.Bruce and R.J.Norton, which is kept permanently at the Club's meeting place. Currently it resides on the wall in the reception area of the Yeovil Court Hotel, where the Club meets every Tuesday at 6.00pm – unless there is a visit or special event taking place.

1967/1971: In September 1967, an ambitious but successful Charity Ball was organised in conjunction with the Round Table and held at Yeovil Technical College. Music for dancing was provided for by the Cyril Stapleton Orchestra, a band that will be remembered by many as having played regularly on the BBC.

In succeeding years, this fund-raising effort became a joint project for the club, the Round Table and the Yeovil Lions. On a number of occasions the venue was, by kind permission of the Officer Commanding, the Heron Club, Royal Naval Air Station, Yeovilton. In 1971 the Ball was held specifically in aid of the Yeovil Rotary Club charity fund and raised £200. A Joint Charity Ball Committee still exists, although events are organised less frequently. The number of local service clubs involved has expanded and now includes representatives from Yeovil and YeoVale Rotary Clubs, Yeovil Lions, Yeovil Round Table and the Yeovil and Sherborne branch of Soroptimists.

Close Associations

Hilfield Friary

In 1922 Brother Douglas, who created the Home of St Francis at Batcombe, was present at the inaugural meeting of the Rotary Club of Yeovil in May of that year. A link was thus created between the Home and the Club, which continues to this day. Each year since – in particular at the Club's pre-Christmas Dinner - a speaker from the Home of St Francis has provided members with an update on the activities of the Friars both at home and overseas.

Similar to Rotary Clubs internationally, Hilfield Friary – as it is now known - has given help for the homeless and the wellbeing of the community, as well as providing a place for prayer, reflection and renewal. Today at Hilfield there is a particular emphasis on living and promoting Franciscan values of care for creation, working for peace, justice and the environment and seeking respectful dialogue with people of other faiths.

Grovelands Care Centre

Considered at the time as one of the most worthwhile and financially ambitious projects ever launched by Yeovil Rotary Club was the provision of a home for up to 25 elderly people. Grovelands, as it now called, was adopted by members in 1956 even though it was realised that a formidable sum of money would be required – something like £17k to £20k.

Club members established the Yeovil District Housing Association and, thanks to the generosity of Past President J.C.Corrie, a suitable property was found on extremely favourable terms. The Home was officially opened on 26th November 1962 and is now run by Somerset Care Ltd. Grovelands continues to thrive with the original premises in Grove Avenue having recently been extended and fully refurbished.

Help for Heroes

Help for Heroes (H4H) was founded by Bryn and Emma Parry after a profoundly moving visit to Selly Oak Hospital in the summer of 2007, where they met some young people who had been badly wounded and wanted to do something to help. The original idea was to go on a bike ride from Caen to Cannes and raise £10,000. But, following a suggestion from General Sir Richard Dannatt, the idea grew and Emma and Bryn took on the challenge to raise £8million to build a new Rehabilitation Complex at Headley Court.

Emma and Bryn rode 350 miles through France, alongside 300 cyclists from all walks of life, to raise a staggering £1.4m. Within eight months, H4H had achieved its initial aim of raising £8 million, but the money kept pouring in. The charity had touched a nerve with the British public and it fast became a national phenomenon.

Now, Help for Heroes raises money to support members of the Armed Forces who have been wounded in service. It asks supporters to "do their bit" to show the brave young men and women they are cared for. Over one-million people have responded to date and £millions have been raised to buy much needed services that will aid the recovery process. So far almost all the money has been allocated to fund direct projects and support other service charities.

Speaking this evening is Richard Lupton, who has been involved with fundraising for H4H since the start. Previously a regular infantry officer with the Royal Green Jackets and an employee at AugustaWestland, Richard has recently been appointed as the charity's south west regional coordinator. He lives on the Blackdown Hills with his family and – time permitting – serves in the Rifles as a TA officer.

We thank you for your support.

RNAS Yeovilton

Also known as HMS Heron, RNAS Yeovilton is one of the Navy's two principal air bases and one of the busiest military airfields in the UK. It is home to more than 100 aircraft operated by both front-line squadrons and training units - including all Fleet Air Arm Lynx and the Commando Helicopter Force - plus the legendary vintage aircraft of the RN Historic Flight.

The base covers 1,400 acres and is occupied by around 4,300 personnel - both service and civilian. This includes MoD employees and permanent contractors. In addition to the squadrons, the air station is home to the Navy's Fighter Controller School, the School of Aircraft Control and the Helicopter Underwater Escape Trainer.

In addition, the air station hosts a large support staff from the MoD's Defence Equipment and Support organisation. It also hosts the Yeovilton International Air Day, this year's event recently taking place on 23rd June.

However, one of the most recognisable features of the air station is its famous Fleet Air Arm Museum. Now known as the National Museum of the Royal Navy, it comprises four sections, reflecting that the Navy operates on the sea, under the sea, on land and in the air. It has four exhibition halls and, with over ninety aircraft, over two-million records and 30-thousand artifacts, the museum is the second largest naval aviation museum in the world. It houses the first British-built Concorde and features the museum's unique Aircraft Carrier Experience exhibition.
